Walnut man killed in crash

A Walnut man was killed Saturday night when his car was involved in a spectacular one-car crash on the Harmon Blacktop, south of Harmon.

Dead is Daniel Lee Schwingle, 23, Walnut.

According to state police reports, the Schwingle auto was southbound on the Harmon Blacktop at a high rate of speed when it went off the right side of the road. Schwingle apparently lost control of the vehicle, it went into a ditch near a creek, traveled out of the ditch sheering off a utility pole, and came to rest on its side in a cornfield. Schwingle's body was found approximately 15 feet from the car.

Damage to his auto was estimated at $400.

Funeral services for Schwingle will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Ross Funeral Home, Walnut, with Dr. Eugene Spradling, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Walnut Cemetery. Visitation will be held after 7 p.m. tonight at the funeral home.

A memorial has been established.

Rural Fire Board still after park land

By LENNY INGRASSIA

Loopholes in state laws which permit the lease or transfer of park district property for "the public purpose" have again spurred interest within the Dixon Rural Fire Board in its quest for a new building site.

Board Atty. George Nichols told members at their meeting today that a thorough check of statute books reveals two sections which allow the land transfer on a donation basis or lease arrangement.

A first attempt to secure park district property for a new stationhouse failed when park board members cited federal regulations banning the land transfer. The site in question, located west of the present Palmyra Avenue fire station, has also been pegged by the Park Board for the location of a tennis court complex.

"Let them (park board) put out their own forest fires or buy fire trucks," Nichols remarked in substantiating his claim that the rural fire department falls within "the public purpose" section of the law. The statute allows the transfer, provided the receiving agency is operated for the public purpose.

Another section of the law books states the park district is allowed to lease land to a concession. To that statement, Rural Fire Chief Edwin Voss conjectured, "We could put up a popcorn stand big enough to house eight fire trucks."

Nichols cited other restrictions, one of which specifies that the two districts must overlap in their territories, "which they do," he added.

Still another clause in the law books calls for attorney-general approval of the sale or transfer. Another calls for the creation of Public Building Commission to handle the construction and eventual transfer to the fire district of the building.

Nichols remained confident that the transfer could be carried out, "providing they (park board) are receptive to the idea."

At the request of Thomas Shaw, board president, the matter was left with Nichols to confer with park board attorneys on the topic.

Were the park board to grant the request, it would allow the construction of a stationhouse on a 120 by 140 foot lot facing Palmyra Avenue. It would additionally reduce expenses to construct 130 feet of sewer below the previously planned site, near the present building, which falls over a sewer easement.

Shaw said of the land transfer, "I don't think there should be any problem, they (park district) thought it was a legal problem before."

No cost estimates were mentioned on the proposed eight-bay stationhouse.

Voss got approval on three of four requests for purchases totaling more than $5,300.

The largest expense went toward the purchase of two-way portable radios for use at fire scenes to communicate between firefighters and the chief. Each of the units cost $850. Board members approved the purchase of two portables with charging units. Voss reasoned a great deal of his time on fire calls is spent trying to get messages to firemen and the radios would speed up the process.

The board approved the purchase of 2,000 feet of firehose in 1½- and 2½-inch sizes, although it was unclear if Glazebrook Fire Equipment Co., Washington, Ill., submitted the low bid. The firm was awarded the contract, however, at least one other bidder, on the surface, submitted a partial low bid.

Board member George Beier questioned the validity of the bids received saying there was no way to compare them accurately. "If you're going to bid it, bid it right or don't bid it at all," he remarked. No one was certain whether the one lower bid included delivery to Dixon or whether the firm offered a discount for early payment or whether the hose was guaranteed.

Voss said he favored the Glazebrook bid "because all of our hose comes from them and we're familiar with the couplings."

The board approved the Glazebrook bid unanimously. Cost of the hose was $3,180.

Also approved was the purchase of 13 fire helmets at $34 apiece. The equipment will replace outdated helmets at the Grand Detour station.

No action was taken on a request to install radial tires on the emergency van. The request was made by Voss after he received a complaint of the rough ride encountered with regular tires. Board members were not convinced the steel-radial tires would improve the ride.

Dixon Oil Co. was awarded a contract for fuel oil for the 1975-76 years. The firm offered a floating rate of two cents under tank wagon price on the day of delivery. The local firm was the only bidder.

Payroll of $5,744 for September and bills of $7,551 were approved.

More than 100 arrests as Boston buses roll

BOSTON (AP) — Police made over 100 arrests as U.S. Marshals backed by National Guard troops helped get the buses rolling today as a new and extensive busing program came to the nation's oldest public school system.

Police riflemen were stationed on rooftops and U.S. marshals guarded bus routes to help implement the court-ordered desegregation program.

At South Boston High School, police and state troopers lined the corridors and officers stood at the entrances to other schools as black pupils arrived in buses for the first day of classes under a new desegregation program.

National Guardsmen were standing by, and 100 U.S. marshals helped patrol school grounds. Police riflemen were stationed on rooftops at Charlestown High School, which is being integrated for the first time this year.

A group of about 200 whites gathered on Bunker Hill Street and burned a human in effigy with a racial epithet printed on it while black children entered the high school one block away.

Police said a .22-caliber bullet was fired through the side of a police van in Charlestown, but the officer driving the van was not injured.

Police reported some 100 arrests, mostly for disorderly conduct. Many of those taken into custody were said to be members of the protesting Committee Against Racism.

Police spokesman Steven Dunleavy said a group of 40 was arrested in South Boston before school opened this morning, and about 60 persons who gathered at the police station to protest the arrests were also taken into custody.

Scattered arrests were also reported in Hyde Park, the South End near Roxbury and in other parts of South Boston.

"In general, schools are doing fine, and the educational process is going on," said Robert Donahue, director of the office of implementation under the desegregation program.

School attendance figures were not immediately available, but Donahue said attendance generally appeared to be about one-fourth to one-half of projected enrollment.

He said about 969 of 2,860 projected pupils at eight elementary schools had reported for classes today. He said 851 of 1,872 projected pupils at four high schools had shown up, but those figures did not include enrollments at South Boston, Charlestown, Roxbury or Hyde Park.

In South Boston, the heart of the antibusing forces in the city, about 80 black pupils walked through police lines into the building. State police said troopers were stationed inside along hallways.

Small crowds of whites watched silently as the blacks emerged from the buses.

"South Boston has been all white since my great-great grandmother," said Rita Mallon, a hairdresser in her 20s who had walked her brother to school. "All of a sudden, it's black."

Armed guards on nearly empty buses in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Armed National Guard troops and police rode nearly empty school buses today as classes resumed in Jefferson County after four days of noisy and sometimes violent antibusing protests.

Despite the guards, attendance was reported down sharply at several schools. Many buses carrying white children to schools in the southern part of the county were nearly empty. Buses bringing black children, however, were reported nearly full.

Supt. Ernest C. Grayson said 95 buses did not make runs because drivers did not show up or else there wasn't sufficient gasoline to operate the vehicles, adding that this affected 16 per cent of the countywide fleet.

Grayson said some service stations refused to sell gasoline to bus drivers.

He added that there were reports that some drivers had been threatened. He added that normally a pool of 70 to 75 drivers would be in reserve but because of last-minute resignations and terminations, there were practically no additional people to turn to.

U.S. District Court Judge James F. Gordon on Sunday ordered the police and Guardsmen to ride the buses following four days of violence in which an estimated 200 persons have been injured and about 500 arrested.

Injured in boat crash

The cause of a boating accident on the Rock River Saturday which injured a Sterling man remains under investigation by Lee County Conservation officials.

Arthur Weir, Sterling, a passenger in a boat operated by Bruce Harlan, 49, Grekland Shores, suffered a broken left arm in the incident. He was listed in good condition today at Community General Hospital, Sterling.

Initial reports by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies indicated Harlan's boat, an 18-foot runabout, crashed into another boat operated by Lee Drynan, 32, Sterling.

Drynan told authorities he was heading east in the river, near Green Acres Trailer Park, when his boat was struck from behind in the left rear section.

Extensive damage was reported to both boats.

Passengers in Drynan's boat were Kathy Drynan and Bob Newell, both of Sterling, and Ted and Ruth Bolk, Grekland Shores. Other passengers in Harlan's boat were Phyllis Harlan, 47, Grekland Shores; Donald and Lois Dewerd; and Delores Weir, all of Sterling. No other injuries were reported.

Investigation of the accident was turned over to conservation authorities.

What's Inside

William Simon, secretary of the treasury, predicts oil prices may start downward by 1980, if alternate uses of energy are utilized; and that three million more jobs are now needed to reduce joblessness to 5.5 million, an acceptable level and that two to three million new jobs are needed each year until 1980 to keep the unemployment rate that low. We had both guns and butter during the heyday of the Vietnam conflict and we still are suffering an economic hangover from that uneconomic orgy, writes RHN in Take It From Here, page 2.

The United States is one of the few nations in the world not using the metric system. The metric system of measurements is based on the decimal system. It is being taught in elementary schools today. Beginning today, The Telegraph, each day, will publish a cartoon strip called "Priscilla's Pop," on the Women's page. This cartoon panel features the learning of the metric system of measurements. Ford okay to GOP energy plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today embraced a GOP plan to extend oil price controls for 45 days as Republicans and Democrats disagreed on prospects of sustaining his promised veto of a six-month extension.

Participants in a breakfast meeting Ford held with selected Republican senators produced forecasts that the veto, due Tuesday, would be upheld by the Senate.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., who took part in a bipartisan conference on energy policy later in the morning, said the House probably would override the veto.

Albert said that no matter what happens to Ford's veto, "in the long pull, we've got to work out an energy bill."

Ford would like to see a 45-day continuation of controls and the fashioning during that period of a Republican-Democratic compromise on a longer-term phaseout of oil price curbs.

"All we could do is talk about a compromise," Albert said following Ford's meeting with congressional leaders.

The House speaker said Ford also urged early action on the decontrol of the price of natural gas moving across state lines.

He said Ford discussed a move to give gas-short industries 180 days this fall and winter in which to go into unregulated state markets for natural gas to buy supplies at the going rate.

Administration officials say some industries face the threat of running out of gas supplies needed to sustain production during the winter months.

Ford and key aides, including Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, met for nearly 90 minutes with the GOP senators before going into the bipartisan conference.

The two meetings today followed one Saturday at which seven Democratic senators agreed with Ford that the best course would be enactment of a measure to phase out price controls.

Roth, chief sponsor of a bill to pare the control extension to 45 days, said he thought foes of the six-month bill could produce the 34 votes to sustain the veto in the 100-member Senate.

Reagan will challenge Ford

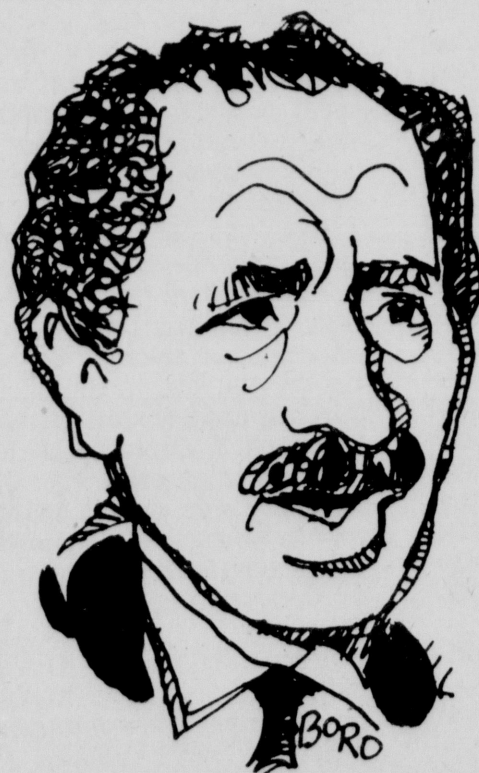

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan will enter the race for the GOP presidential nomination "before Thanksgiving" and mount an aggressive challenge to President Ford in the primaries, a key supporter said today.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's a candidate and we've moved from the question of 'if, to 'when and where,'" said Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., who heads a citizen's committee for Reagan.

London, U.S. disagree on Turkey

By HENRY J. TAYLOR
LONDON: Top officials of the British Foreign Office privately part company with Congress's position regarding Turkey. And, in their opinion, so do most NATO countries.
Behind the scenes, they deplore the refusal of the United States to lift the arms embargo to this NATO ally.
Britain herself has made many abortive tries at peace in the Middle East—of which Turkey assumes its traditional role of "the cork in the bottle of Asia Minor." For Turkey is geographically located to stand in the way of any land or sea attempt to support an Israeli-Arab war.
The origin of the current dispute involving the United States is, of course, Cyprus.
This strategic island 40 miles from the coast of Turkey came into the world news on July 14, 1974, with the Turkish invasion and the undisputed use of American-supplied arms in clear violation of the U.S. Foreign Military Assistance and Sales Acts.
Turkish rule, however, started in 1570. Then the Mediterranean witnessed centuries of religious and economic rivalry between Turkish and Greek Cypriots. This culminated in what the Greeks call Enosis, or union with Greece. And in 1963 and again in 1967, the United States persuaded Turkey not to intervene in Cyprus in support of the Turkish Cypriot minority.
British Foreign Office officials tell me that they took a dim view of these 1963 and 1967 American demands on Turkey—but the die was cast.

Britain was involved through the 1959 treaty of Zurich. It was signed by England, Greece and Turkey. Article 4 gave the right, if common action is not possible, "to take action with the sole aim of reestablishing the state of affairs created by this treaty."
The government of George Papadopoulos, who ultimately became president of Greece, always steadfastly refused to invade Cyprus despite much popular clamor to do so. But when Papadopoulos was overthrown, the successor junta reversed the Papadopoulos position and initiated civil war on Cyprus.
Under this reversal of the Papadopoulos doctrine, no Turkish government could have withstood the national demand to protect the 110,000 Turkish minority.
The Foreign Officials tell me that the Turkish government first asked Britain to act in concert. But London declined and, in addition, refused the use of Britain's vital base on Cyprus.
The Eciwet government in Ankara, a weak government coalition, took the line of least resistance by slavishly patronizing the Turkish military. The Turkish excesses that followed are most certainly not any more condoned by the British Foreign Office than by our U.S. Congress.
With the Turkish landings on Cyprus, the Turks fought an "illegal" force of 11,500 Greek cypriots and ultimately caused at least 200,000 Greek refugees to be homeless. The Turks expanded the territories of the Turkish minority; vengeance and recklessness were in the saddle.

But the British officials here insist that the future is hopeless unless the Greek and Turkish cypriots live in separate areas of Cyprus with an agreed autonomy.
Behind closed doors, a meeting called here "Vienna-3" is in progress in Vienna between Greek and Turkish representatives and United Nations Secretary Kurt Waldheim. These talks include a written acceptance of the autonomy concept and an unwritten agreement that about 9,000 Turks will move to the north, surrendering their homes to Greeks.
Whitehall officials are convinced that U.S. action against Turkey is counterproductive. Both Turkey and Greece are, of course, NATO members and both are strategic imperatives in the Eastern Mediterranean.
The United States has invested $4 billion in military aid to Turkey. The Turkish army today totals 450,000 troops. Except for the United States and West Germany, this is NATO's largest contingent. We also rely on a vital NATO airfield at Adana as well as the while now-jeopardized network of intelligence-gathering installations harboring 7,000 Americans.
The British Foreign Office officials insist that the United States is making a Texas-sized mistake that endangers not only NATO but the American interest directly. They privately question whether our country should throw the baby out with the bath water.

"And the trunk is big enough to hold the list price in one dollar bills!"

Guns safer than cars

I would like very much to voice my opinion about our "Safe Labor Day Weekend," as opposed to firearm fatalities.
On the front page of The Telegraph, Sept. 2, it states, "Labor Day Holiday proves one of the safest in decades." Yet, in that article it says, "The Associated Press counted 392 traffic fatalities on the nation's roads during the period from 6 p.m., Friday to midnight, Monday, local time."
If, for example, that many people were shot in the same amount of time, this country would be very shocked at the figures—instead of considering it a "safe weekend."
I, also, submit that non-fatal car injuries added to 392 fatalities suffered the Labor Day weekend would make firearm injuries inflicted over the same amount of time very insignificant.
Therefore, congressmen should start making laws where they are needed most. Leaving firearm laws where they stand.
Sincerely,
David Brigl

principal Mr. Hillyer. He asked if I was the same person who previously had some letters in the paper concerning some situations at the Dixon High School. When I told him I was, he remarked, "If you write anything about Jefferson School make sure you tell the truth."
I could tell by the way he made this comment that he thought that my previous letters had been a bunch of lies. I would like to let Mr. Hillyer and business manager Wilbur Stitzel know that my letters contained nothing but the absolute truth.
Getting back to the application, I filled it out Tuesday and when I got a call Friday from one of the custodians at Jefferson. I was told my application had been refused by Wilbur Stitzel because of my previous letters in the paper concerning the high school.

I cannot see why Hillyer or Stitzel hold this against me. I was telling the truth in these letters and I wanted to make the public better aware of what was going on at the high school. My letters contained the absolute truth along with my opinions. I would like to inform Mr. Hillyer and Mr. Stitzel that there is such a thing as freedom of speech. I am entitled to my opinions and I do not like people holding them against me.
Sincerely,
Steve Hey

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS— William Simon, secretary of the treasury, Sunday predicted oil prices will start to come down by 1980; that between now and 1980, the economy will have to provide two million new jobs each year and 1½ million new employments each year after that to keep unemployment at acceptable figures.
The treasury's head man also said the acceptable goal for inflation is between 2 and 3 per cent per year.
He made these and other comments on the NBC Meet the Press program.
Simon qualified his forecast about the decline of oil prices by stating this would be so if the nation does what is necessary to curb the use of oil and to find other alternate sources of energy.
Simon, who was the nation's first energy administrator, said that although 1½ million more people are working now than at this time last year, there are still 8.4 million persons jobless and to achieve optimum full employment the economy must open up three million more positions. This indicates, although the secretary did not draw this conclusion, that acceptable unemployment is about 5½ million.
Simon declared the country's economy has turned around and although inflation is a "serious problem," yet, and wholesale and consumer price index rises are not hopeful signs, there are no further steps needed to be taken by the Ford administration to assure the sputtering economic recovery does not give up the ghost.
The secretary, who had a private career as an investment banker before entering government service, asserted the economy will have to make its recovery in the face of continued higher-than-wanted inflation, "because it will be with us for several years."
Simon is stern and vociferous when asked about when inflation will be coped with. Like a stern schoolmaster, he recites, almost by rote, the inflation plague is the reaping of the consequences of the sins of the past decade.
"That problem is not of our making, it came from impossible and irresponsible fiscal policies by the federal government which took $300 billion in government debt from the private financing sector and has deprived the normal flow of investment funds to industries producing goods, such as housing and providing new jobs in the private sector."

The unabashed apostle declared that all the economy needs to right itself is to increase productivity which will reallocate capital investment, provide more jobs and produce cheaper goods for consumers.
Presto, all is well.
Simon can stick to this and he is more right than wrong, if he and the Ford administration do not use it as a cop-out to dealing with the day-to-day purchasing power-robbing inflation which is the enemy of increasing real productivity which is the key to normalizing economic activity.
For instance, in 1974 a phenomenon appeared in the U.S. economy for the first time: inflation hit new highs while unemployment was soaring to numbers more than any time since World War II.
This horrendous situation was not wholly related to "sins of a decade," nor to the winding down of the Vietnam disaster, nor to Watergate.
Long years ago when I endeavored to understand something about economics under the tutelage of college profs there was much talk of "cost-push" factors in rising prices and the effect "demand-pull" had on the consumer price index.
Minds not attuned to theoretical economics could grasp the simple equation: if wages, the major cost of goods, increases, the price will rise; and that if demand for goods is greater than the supply, the price will go higher.
No damage comes from either of these occurrences providing productivity keeps pace with the higher cost of goods resulting from operating expense increases, if substantially all citizens benefit from the wage cost increase.
The well-being of the economy under this assessment is dependent on sustained increases in productivity because one half of the equation predicts the demand for goods will increase as personal spendable income rises which is the "demand-pull" effect on prices.

If productivity keeps pace with the increased demand for goods sparked by the higher cost which affects higher personal spendable resources, inflation is aborted.
If productivity falters, inflation rears its ugly head.
If the increased personal spendable income is not distributed generally throughout the population, the "cost-push" price hike will not be matched by pressure from the "demand-pull" and recession will be invoked.
Earlier this year a book was published, "The Root of Inflation," subtitled, "The International Crisis."
In it, John Blair of the University of South Florida writes about such "nondemand" price increases as oil and other energy forms and "other 'nondemand' causes not usually associated with the 'cost-push.' Among them are action by governments that provide powerful impetus to the inflationary process. . . . Throughout the world, the failure to distinguish between the 'demand' and 'nondemand' causes has led governments to adopt policies that not only fail to arrest the inflation arising from the latter but tend to induce or aggravate recession, resulting in needless unemployment and substantial underutilization of resources."
Part of what Dr. Blair is stating can be understood under Simon's "sins of a decade."
The proliferation of government-financed programs to meet the economic needs of those who did not benefit from the goodies coming from "cost-push" factors sending prices higher draws available capital from both investment and personal spendable resources and becomes a drag on economic productivity.
Simon says, "we have finite resources for saving and spending in the U.S."
We had both "guns and butter" during the heyday of the Vietnam involvement and we still have an economic hangover from that uneconomic orgy.

Things Dixon Talked About

10 YEARS AGO

The steer show and auction of the Ag Bureau of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. when the young people who last year were awarded feeder calves to keep and feed for a year bring them back as fat steers. The auction and show will be held at the cattle yards in the 900 block of Depot Avenue.

The Lions Club of Dixon got off to a flying start when the members met at the Nachusa Tavern Tuesday evening for the purpose of organization. After the dinner the field director announced the gratifying results of his labors in Dixon, and stated that the charter for the local club will be received in a short time.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A close friend of Alabama's George Wallace says the governor's people must prepare strategy to deal with an anticipated attempt by some presidential candidates to spread doubts about Wallace's physical ability to be chief executive. The friend suggests following the view of Mississippi's Ross Barnett Jr., who says: "I'd rather have a President who was paralyzed from the waist down than from the waist up." . . . In a book condemning excessive government regulation of business, Prof. Murray Weidenbaum says that there were 45,422 pages of new government regulations published last year, one of which, Naval Orange Regulation 311, mandates how many of the fruit may be shipped weekly from California to Arizona . . . Summer visitors in the Capital are shocked to find on sale at street corners here a publication encouraging violence in the name of right wing extremism. Increasing suspicions are being heard concerning the legitimacy of news articles that indicate large numbers of Americans can not recognize the Declaration of Independence, and thus in polls, refuse to endorse it. A political and philosophical storm is abuilding concerning whether last spring's $22 billion tax cut-rebate was, in the end, helpful. The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to inquire about the vaccination for Rocky Mountain Spotted (Tick) Fever. Some doctors do not keep the serum and explain that it is too expensive to keep on hand and that the shot may have serious side effects. Other doctors give the shots and recommend them. Do you think these shots are worthwhile? Ticks are very bad in this part of the country, especially in the grass and woods.

Also tell me a little about the fever and some early signs to look for if my children get sick. What can be done if a child gets this fever?
DEAR READER — You are almost out of the woods this year. The disease usually strikes between the first of May and the last of September.

The reason the vaccine is not used so much any more is that it is now much easier to treat Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever than it used to be. The important thing is to suspect the disease early and start treatment early. Several antibiotics (tetracyclines and chloramphenicol) are very effective in treating the disease. The name of the disease is a misnomer. It was first found in the United States in Montana, and for years people thought it was indigenous to the Rocky Mountain area, which proved to be false. It is found quite frequently along the Atlantic Seaboard. It affects about 308 people a year.

The disease itself starts two days to two weeks after being bitten by a tick. The illness may begin like measles. However, measles are less common in the months when Rocky Mountain Fever is most likely to occur. There may be associated pain in the bones, joints, and muscles, but that won't help make a diagnosis. By the second day the fever is commonly 40.4 to 40.5 degrees C (104 to 105 degrees F.).

In two to six days a rash develops and may progress to involve large areas of the skin. The brain may be involved with delirium and even coma. The real death-dealing complications, though, are involvement of the lungs and heart.

The fever is usually over in about two weeks, but it may take a month or two for the patient to fully recover.

The ticks transmit an organism half way between bacteria and viruses, called rickettsia. An infected tick will transmit the disease to its own offspring. The rickettsial illness affects small mammals, including dogs.

When the tick gets on man it will inoculate him with the rickettsia. The tick cannot transmit the infection without being attached for several hours. So, if you inspect your person twice a day for ticks and remove them, you will go a long way toward protecting yourself.

Regardless of what you have read about how to burn off a tick, the only way to remove the tick is to use a pair of small forceps and grasp the tick by the head and chest. Pull gently until he releases his jaws. If you kill the tick while in place with a lighted cigarette or kerosene, the tick may expel a lot of rickettsia into the person during the death throes.

Also, you can help by keeping the family dog free of ticks with an effective collar, and you can even use clothing impregnated with tick repellents. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, Sept. 8, the 251st day of 1975. There are 114 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1565, a Spanish expedition landed at what is now St. Augustine, Fla., and founded the first permanent European settlement in North America.

On this date: In 1664, Peter Stuyvesant surrendered New Amsterdam to the British.

In 1760, Wisconsin came under British control after being French territory.

In 1855, the Crimean War ended.

In 1883, construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad was completed with the driving of the last spike near Garrison, Mont.

In 1934, 134 persons lost their lives in a fire aboard the luxury liner Morro Castle off the New Jersey coast.

In 1935, Sen. Huey Long, D-La., was shot at Baton Rouge. He died two days later.

Ten years ago: A number of countries, including the United States, made appeals to India and Pakistan to stop their fighting.

Five years ago: The Red Cross was named to negotiate with guerrillas holding 180 hostages aboard two hijacked airliners in Jordan.

One year ago: President Ford granted former President Richard M. Nixon an unconditional pardon for any crimes he may have committed during his term in office.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Sid Caesar is 53 years old. Songwriter Howard Dietz is 79.

Thought for today: Where there's marriage without love, there will be love without marriage. — Benjamin Franklin.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, George Washington alerted his generals that he would soon call a Council of War to consider the feasibility of launching a direct attack on Boston.

Cyclamate ban may be lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials plan to decide in January whether to lift the controversial ban on the use of cyclamates as an artificial sweetener.

The decision will be an effort to end arguments spanning the last six years on whether there is a link between cyclamates and cancer in rats.

If scientists fail to establish a link, Food and Drug Administration officials say cyclamates could be used commercially in diet soft drinks and food next year.

It would take at least four months after the FDA decision to meet requirements for public comment and publication, so

Religious crackdown underway

TOKYO (AP) — Authorities here are quietly cracking down on a group of young foreigners bent on bringing an Asian religion to some reluctant Asians, the Japanese.

After five years in Japan, the saffron-robed members of the Hare Krishna movement admit the Japanese are a hard lot to win over, having converted only five persons among the country's 110 million people.

In their frustration, some Krishna devotees may have acted rashly, said John Williams, 25, of San Francisco, who also is known by his religious name of Karnamritas Das.

"But our intentions are good," he added.

In the past month, five American devotees have been arrested — one youth twice — on charges ranging from assault to intimidation. The incidents have received wide press coverage in Japan and the National Police Agency says it's run out of patience.

One incident involved a 70-year-old woman who was struck in the face by a Krishna missionary she criticized for forcefully selling religious literature to passersby — a major complaint against the group, police said.

Williams, who currently runs the Krishna mission in Tokyo, said the charges are "frameups" or stem from misunderstandings. None of the American devotees speaks Japanese.

He blames racism on the part of the Japanese for some of the troubles.

A National Police Agency spokesman said authorities received numerous complaints about how the Krishna mission operates and decided to take action.

The spokesman said the crackdown is being carried out quietly — no deportations, just the denial of extensions or renewals of visas for the Hare Krishna missionaries. Most are on tourist visas and technically shouldn't be engaged in missionary activities, he added.

Authorities have identified 17 American Krishna members, ranging in age from 19 to 30, and all will have to leave the country once their present visas expire, he said.

Those arrested recently, who arrived in Japan on tourist visas, were allowed to return home to the United States with the charges against them dropped, the spokesman said.

Williams and a half-dozen other American and Canadian devotees live in a spacious, but rundown house in an affluent central Tokyo neighborhood.

cyclamates would not likely appear on grocery shelves before the middle of next year.

Meanwhile, as scientists weigh new cyclamate research along with that which generated the ban in 1969, they are studying similar research which suggests a link between cancer in rats and the other major artificial sweetener, saccharine.

The FDA decision on whether to ban saccharine, the principal replacement for cyclamates in diet products, is not expected by FDA officials before 1977.

The FDA's decisions on the artificial sweeteners depend on research with animals fed extremely high doses of the chemicals — the equivalent of more than 1,000 diet soft drinks a day for a human being. These studies are being examined under rigorous standards by scientists inside and outside the FDA.

FDA officials now say high-level Nixon administration officials rushed through the cyclamate ban in 1969 without allowing normal scrutiny of supporting research.

The debate over FDA standards and procedures concerns not only bureaucrats and scientists: production of low-calorie foods and diet soft drinks is a billion-dollar-a-year industry.

An estimated 12 million Americans drink diet sodas each day, and millions of others eat diet foods sweetened with saccharine.

Saccharine, which is 300 times sweeter than sugar, has been in use since 1879, and cyclamates — 30 times sweeter than sugar — have been used since 1944. Both have been subjects of research for years.

The cyclamates decision awaits findings of a scientific panel working under auspices of the National Cancer Institute and reviewing all research on cyclamates and cancer in animals.

FDA officials say privately the panel's decision, due in January, will be adopted by FDA.

In preparation for that report, the FDA is trying to decide related issues, such as whether the chemical can cause organ damage.

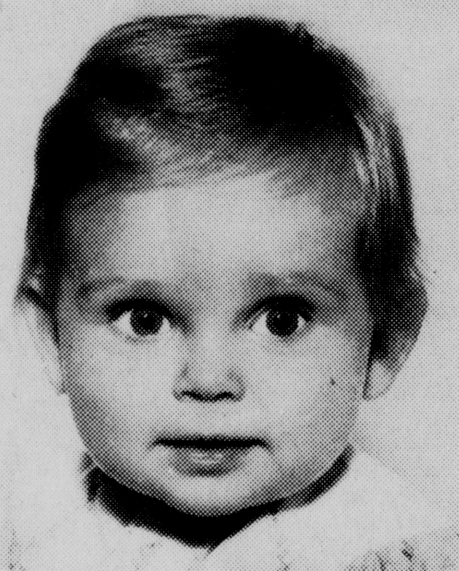

Even with a decision finding there is no cancer link, FDA sources say some limits may be imposed on the possible future use of cyclamates, perhaps like the present but little-known one-gram-a-day-a-person limit on the use of saccharine.

If the panel concludes cyclamates cause cancer, the chemical will remain banned.

If the panel fails to reach a conclusion, the FDA still will make a decision, FDA sources say.

Williams to speak to Chamber of Commerce

WALNUT—The speaker for the Chamber of Commerce meeting tonight is Robert J. Williams, director of Illinois Department of Agriculture.

Governor Walker appointed Robert J. (Pud) Williams director of agriculture in May of 1973. Williams, a grain and livestock farmer all of his life has been active in conservation and flood control. He is a member and former director of the Wabash Valley Interstate Commission and Wabash Valley Association.

During the past 15 years the 49-year-old farmer has served as a member of the White County Board. He has always been active in Democratic politics and has been chairman of the board.

The director's home is a 1,600-acre farm at Mill Shoals, a tiny farming community.

There he lives within three miles of where he was born and raised, and within six miles of two brothers who are also farmers. His younger brother runs a grain elevator owned by them. Three full-time employees run the farm.

Williams keeps 1,000 acres planted in corn and soybeans and has 200 head of cattle. Ten years ago he built a new home with a small lake behind it on the farm. He resides there with his wife, Dorothy, and two children. Dorothy handles all the bookkeeping for the farm.

Williams is well known throughout White County. He is a member of the Farm Bureau, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and is active in the First Presbyterian Church of Carmi.

HOW TO MAKE A ROOM IMPORTANT!
WITH ONE GORGEOUS PIECE OF FURNITURE!
A Kroehler Sofa Like These

IS YOUR living room a little "tired", sort of neutral, a little "mousey", no wallop, no fire, no life? Seems lots of rooms get that way through the years.

Well, in most cases, it's easy to cure. And the cure is here. It's here in the form of generous sized sofas, upholstered in dramatic fabrics, styled to be admired, easily accented with contrasting little cushions that say "Smart, Smart" (with a capital 'S').

And these are as extraordinary in construction as they are in styling, in appearance. Examine the tailoring. (Men rarely notice the perfection of a sofa's tailoring. But your women friends will.) Bounce on it — the innerspring construction, webbed for long life, and tied 8 ways for stability under the comfort! If he could see the frame, your husband would appreciate THAT. Hard wood, double-dowelled, braced, and glued — and screwed. It's just a fine piece of furniture. Feel the cushions. And the fabrics are treated to resist all stains, of course.

Yes, these are beautiful and great values. If you have a room you want to make important, come see these Kroehler Citation Sofas. One gorgeous piece of furniture, like one of these. That's all you need to dramatize a whole room. Come now — while this lovely furniture is here.

OUR GUARANTEE: If you are not completely satisfied when your furniture is delivered to your home, we'll take it back without question.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Jim: "Here is a hand from a rubber bridge game I watched recently. I was sitting in back of North and watched him study a long time before going to four spades over East's four hearts."

Oswald: "Did you ask what he was studying about?"
Jim: "I didn't have to. When North put down the dummy he said that he didn't know whether to double with his two aces or to bid four spades."

Oswald: "The double would have been a real winner. Four hearts would have been one down. Then, since four spades went down two he would have been 700 points better off, but strangely enough North does not appear to have considered the right bid."

Jim: "No, indeed. North should have passed and hoped for the best. He should have known that four spades would be doomed to defeat and while he could not be sure about four hearts, he should have been willing to try to set it undoubled."

Oswald: "Of course, he should. Those two aces were going to be worth two tricks at either hearts or spades." 8 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Young boys should be warned about molesters

Annie Old Girl: You must have donated your brains to the Hadassah rummage sale. I refer to "Concerned Mom" who was afraid to let her seven-year-old boy go to the men's room by himself because "the woods are full of perverts."

Your suggestion to buttonhole a kindly gentleman on his way in and ask him to watch over the kid was idiotic. Please explain how a mother is supposed to pick out the "kindly gentleman" from the sweet old geezer who is as queer as a $3 bill?

More realistic advice would have been to tell the boy, "Go in alone and if anyone tries to molest you, scream your head off." If he doesn't know what "molest" means, she should tell him. Sex education should start early. — Louisville Reader

Dear Lou: You may have a point, but I doubt that any geezers, no matter how funny, would take such a chance with the kid's mother standing outside the door. Your suggestion that young boys be warned against molesters and that they yell their heads off is excellent. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to a girl who is giving me a hard time. She says I'm too possessive and overly suspicious. She doesn't act like a person who is about to be married. You be the judge.

In the last three weeks, Hilda has "disappeared" four times. When I call her apartment, her roommate says, "I don't know where she is. Maybe she's at her mother's." I call her mother and she's not there. When Hilda turns up after two or three days and I ask where she's been, she says, "Don't be such a male chauvinist pig." I paid $255 for an engagement ring. We plan to be married in three months. But I worry about a girl who stays lost for two and three days and then refuses to account for herself.

Does marriage settle people down? What do you think? — Once Burnt, Twice Shy.

Dear Burnt: I think you'd better prepare for a life of grief if you marry a girl who specializes in disappearing and refuses to account for her absence. Don't expect her to settle down merely because she has a wedding ring on her finger. The engagement ring doesn't seem to mean much.

Dear Ann Landers: I always thought your column was to read — not to write to. But here I am, looking for help.

I'm a boy 16, with lots of friends but no friendships. No one ever calls me to go anywhere. I'm always the one who does the calling. Usually the guys I call have "other plans." I don't know if their excuses are legitimate or not.

My parents are always pushing me to go out, but I hate to go alone and I can't seem to get anyone to go with me. Maybe I'm a born loner. Do other people feel as I do or am I some kind of freak? Please help me. — No Name.

Dear N.N.: There are millions of people like you. In fact, popular teenagers sometimes get the idea they have no friends. It's part of growing up. You say "the guys" usually have other plans. There's another sex. Girls. Have you tried them? I'll bet at least a dozen who go to your school would be thrilled to get a phone call from you.

Give it a try, and let me know how you make out. Er... I mean get along.

Sandwiches still inspire novel variations

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Even though the price of bread is predicted to jump as much as 24 cents if the sale of cereal grains to Russia occurs, a New York event heralded the popular sandwich and the use of bread.

Thomas R. Giancoli was crowned Sandwich King of America in the 20th annual National Sandwich Idea Contest. There were 1,900 entries and among the sponsors were the United Dairy Industry Association, the Kansas Wheat Commission, the National Livestock and Meat Board, and the Wheat Flour Institute. The final top 20 recipes were judged by food experts to select four finalists. And that's where Chef Giancoli of Riverside Inn near Seattle comes in.

His Old Chinatown Pork Burger sandwich won him the crown, a trip for two to Europe and $500.

He explained that the popularity of Chinese cooking inspired him. His sandwich was delicious although it did not recall any dish we have eaten related to cooking on the mainland of China.

His recipe contains pork sausage, soft breadcrumbs, green onion, green pepper, water chestnuts, dry sherry, soy sauce, garlic and ginger root, served on enriched sesame seed hamburger rolls with layers of fresh bean sprouts. Inevitably there is a sweet-and-sour sauce to top it made of crushed pineapple, catsup, orange marmalade and prepared mustard.

Giancoli did not say how long it takes to assemble his Chinese fantasy nor did he mention the rising price of bread.

If you are ever in Spring Park near Minneapolis stop to say hello to a spritely young cook by the name of Marsha Wolford. Ask for her Vegetarian Deli sandwich. It costs $2.50 and won her $500 and a trip to New York Sandwich coronation luncheon.

Her sandwich consists of enriched cracked wheat bread, dairy sour cream and horseradish. With these go lettuce, sliced tomatoes, sliced mushrooms, sliced onion, sliced cucumber and several slices of Colby or Monterey Jack cheese.

Fish and seafood were in the sandwich picture, too. Elges' Mediterranean Seawich consists of small shrimp, canned tuna, chopped celery, mushrooms and stuffed olives, hard cooked eggs, American cheese and dark rye bread.

The prize winner and the runners up all produced excellent eating. But no one of them seemed aware of or concerned with the threat of much higher bread costs. Maybe that was just as well. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Manson's name prominent in assassination try

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The name of Charles Manson may dominate the case of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, although prosecutors say they find no evidence of a conspiracy in the attempted assassination of President Ford. Manson, convicted of murder in the deaths of nine persons, is reputed by some authorities to still have a strong influence over some of his communal "family," despite the fact he is in prison. Among the most loyal is Miss Fromme, 27, charged with attempted murder of the President after pointing a loaded .45 caliber pistol at Ford from an arm's length away as the President shook hands with well-wishers near the State Capitol on Friday. She once said of the Manson family: "They're my life."

FBI agents who interviewed Manson, 40, in his San Quentin jail cell over the weekend say he denied any role in a conspiracy to kill Ford but refused to answer specific questions.

U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes and Sacramento Police Chief William Kinney both said during the weekend they had no evidence of any Manson involvement. And Miss Fromme's roommate, Sandra Good, another loyal Manson follower, said Manson had nothing to do with the incident.

The Big Apple

"The Big Apple" is a city with problems at its core. It is facing its worst economic crunch since the Depression. According to its mayor, Abraham Beame, the city has accumulated debts over the past ten years that total about $2.8 billion. In 1965 the city's budget was $3.87 billion. This year's budget was expected to exceed $12 billion. Of the city's population of nearly 8 million, more than 1 million people are receiving welfare. The city employs more than 300,000 municipal workers. In spite of the problems gnawing at "The Big Apple," the Democratic Party recently chose this city for the site of its 1976 national convention.

Chicago teacher strike into fourth day

By The Associated Press

Chicago teachers were scheduled to continue their strike for a fourth day today after the school board's offer of a one-year contract extension was turned down by teacher negotiators.

A spokesman for the Chicago Teachers Union said Sunday the offer, which included a pay hike on the condition the state legislature appropriates further funds, was "not acceptable."

The strike, which began Wednesday, has idled 26,708 teachers and prolonged summer vacation for some 529,000 pupils.

After CTU negotiators turned down the board's offer, School Supt. Joseph P. Hannon said the major issue was salary. He said the board agreed not to cut 1,525 teaching positions, a move teachers had opposed.

Elsewhere in the state, Elgin teachers were scheduled to man the picket lines for a third day while contracts were still unsettled in 186 districts.

Jim Lottes, a spokesman for the Illinois Education Association, said four hours of negotiations in Elgin ended Sunday night when "the board walked out."

Lottes said "the main problem is economic" in the walk-out by 1,300 teachers. The district serves 26,000 pupils.

The Elgin school board Friday asked for a court injunction to force teachers back to the classroom. Action on the request was deferred until today.

Of the 186 school districts without contracts, 25 are considered "crisis locals," Lottes said.

In Chicago, the teachers union spokesman said the school board has "officially refused to go to mediation through the offices of Mayor Richard J. Daley."

Hannon responded that in light of a report on school finances issued by former Chicago alderman William Singer, it would be "unfair" to ask Daley to mediate. The report was commissioned by Gov. Daniel Walker, at odds with the Chicago mayor since his election as governor.

Singer said Saturday the study he conducted showed the Chicago school district has $15.1 million in underestimated funds. Singer opposed Daley in this year's Democratic mayoral primary election.

Daley said Friday his office would be available to mediate if both the school board and the teachers requested his help.

Meanwhile, the two-week strike by teachers at eight city colleges in Chicago continued. Norman Swenson, president of the Cook County Teachers Union, said after a negotiating session Sunday that progress was being made. "We've cleaned the table of several issues," he said.

Major issues remaining included a cost of living salary increase, restoration of a 12-step salary schedule and class size, he said.

Hennepin Canal project is half completed

SPRINGFIELD — Construction is approximately half completed on a visitors' center and related facilities at Hennepin Canal State Parkway headquarters, near Sheffield in Bureau County, under $310,532 in contracts awarded by the Illinois Capital Development Board, Conservation Director Tony Dean announced.

The project is the largest of three construction programs in progress on the 90-mile-long state canal park. Earlier, the Capital Development Board approved a $18,900 contract for repair of levees and awarded $18,359 in contracts for erection of a shop and equipment storage building in Sheffield.

Dean said the Visitors' Center project involves:

- Construction of a single-story limestone and rough-sawn lumber building containing staff offices, reception area, restrooms, exhibit area, mechanical equipment room, terrace and covered-walkway entrance.
- Installation of a concrete boat launching ramp, gravel-surfaced parking lots at the visitors' center and boat ramp, four concrete block comfort stations, road drainage culverts, hiking trails between canal bridges 14 and 15, and 1.36 miles of gravel road.
- Drilling of a well; installation of water septic system and electrical service lines; sidewalks; landscaping; and excavation of a boat mooring-turning basin and its access channel.

The visitors' center parking lot will accommodate 77 cars and 11 car-trailer units, while the parking area at the boat access ramp will offer 19 car-trailer parking slots and 10 for autos only.

Dean said the facilities are being built on a 640-acre site, between the township road and the historic canal's south bank, southwest of the I-80 and Illinois 88 intersection.

Ladd Construction Co., Ladd, was awarded the $70,800 prime contract and Richard J. Prescott Construction Co., Sterling, received a $94,003 general construction contract. Other contracts approved by CDB include: Meister Bros. Construction, Peoria, $14,260 for electrical work; Soelders Contracting Co., Peru, $24,998 for plumbing; and Radtke's Heating and Sheet Metal, Peru, $6,471 for heating and air conditioning facilities.

Dean said work is expected to be completed by next spring.

Ozark shooting for Mars Phillies not out

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies are down to shooting for Mars. Shooting for Mars? Yeah, that's what manager Danny Ozark says. After the Phillies made four errors in a six-run Chicago Cubs sixth inning that led to a 6-4 defeat Sunday, someone asked Ozark what his goal is now. "To finish first," Ozark retorted, even though his Phillies are now third, seven games behind the pace-setting Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League Eastern Division. "We've still got our shot," Ozark insisted. "It's still there." Someone reminded Ozark that there were only 20 games remaining and wasn't he shooting for the moon? "We found the moon," Ozark snapped. "Let's find Mars." "But if you were one game away from being eliminated, would you still say that?" he was asked. "I would, but not with as much confidence," the manager said. "When the day comes that we're eliminated, then my confidence will go the other way."

The Phils were just as funny on the field as they handed the game to the Cubs in the sixth. Philadelphia led 1-0. Starter Wayne Twitchell had blanked Chicago on two hits with seven strikeouts. Pitcher Ray Burris, who earned win No. 13 against 10 losses with relief help from Rick Reuschel, started the Cubs sixth with a single. He took second on a sacrifice-error, and scored the tying run on Joe Wallis' single. Bill Madlock walked, loading the bases. Jose Cardenal grounded out, Dave Rosello scoring to send the Cubs ahead 2-1. Then Jerry Morales hit a sacrifice fly scoring Wallis. Andy Thornton walked and the comedy of errors took over from there. Manny Trillo's soft liner ticked off Larry Bowa's glove and the shortstop kicked the ball into centerfield for an error. Left fielder Greg Luzinski raced over and fumbled the ball for another error on the play. While all this was going on, Madlock, Thornton and Trillo all scored. The Phillies came back to score three in the eighth, but it was too little too late. Garry Maddox singled and Greg Luzinski walked. The runners advanced on an infield out. Maddox scored on another infield out, and Luzinski came home on Ollie Brown's single.

Reds clinch West pennant, Bench now wants Pirates

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
Chalking up another victory en route to the National League's West Division title was a breeze. The tough part was sitting in the locker room, waiting for the telephone to ring.

And when it finally did, the flag officially belonged to the Cincinnati Reds.

They'd clinched a tie for the crown Sunday with an 8-4 victory over San Francisco, a romp powered by George Foster's four runs batted in.

An hour or so later, the tie was broken. The phone rang and the word came though that Atlanta had beaten secondplace Los Angeles 5-4.

In the rest of the National League, Pittsburgh remained 5½ games on top in the East by shutting out Montreal 6-0. St. Louis belted New York 12-4, Chicago beat Philadelphia 6-4 and Houston defeated San Diego 3-2.

"We want Pittsburgh," the Reds' Johnny Bench shouted when word of the title clinching came through...and the chant spread throughout the clubhouse as quickly as the champagne-and-beer shower. "We're number one! Beat the East!"

Braves 4, Dodgers 1
Marty Perez' two-out tie-breaking single in the ninth inning gave the Braves their victory and officially made Los Angeles an also-ran.

"It has to be our biggest disappointment, coming off last year," said the Dodgers' Steve Yeager, reflecting on the 1974 team that made it into the World Series against Oakland.

Pirates 6, Expos 0
First-inning homers by Al Oliver and Dave Parker and Jerry Reuss' four-hit pitching carried Pittsburgh past the Expos. Art Howe added a three-run double in the eighth to wipe out the slightly bitter taste of hitting into a triple play.

In the fourth, Parker doubled and Richie Zisk walked. Shortstop Tim Lincecum snared Howe's loop to left with an over-the-shoulder catch, then wheeled and fired to second baseman Pete Mackanin to double off Parker for the second out. Mackanin whipped the ball to first baseman Jose Morales to nab Zisk, completing the triple-killing.

Cards 12, Mets 4
Ted Simmons drove in four runs with three singles and Mike Tyson added a three-run homer in the victory that kept the second-place Cardinals within striking distance of Pittsburgh and dropped the fourth-place Mets 7½ games off the pace.

Astros 3, Padres 2
Danny Frisella uncorked a bases-loaded wild pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Astros their victory over the Padres.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Catfish Hunter, chivalrous and humble, said he owes it all to his supporting cast. It's hard to believe that Hunter, either the fisherman or the pitcher, has ever cast a longer line or told a taller tale.

Hunter, the most consistent pitcher in baseball in the 1970s, Sunday joined a couple of immortals from yesteryear by winning his 20th game for the fifth straight year. Only Hall of Famers Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove had drawn five a kind in the American League before.

"It feels great, but I owe it to the teams behind me," said Hunter, who turned in the A's green and gold for the Yankee pinstripes and got a lot of green and gold for doing it. "To Oakland for the first four seasons, and to the Yankees this year. A pitcher is only as good as his team."

The Yankees, who beat Baltimore 2-0 Sunday behind Hunter's six-hitter, are thinking about next year while his former teammates are looking toward another World Series.

The Kansas City Royals, five games behind the A's, charge into Oakland tonight riding an eight-game winning streak. On Sunday, the Royals beat the California Angels 8-7 in 11 innings.

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland beat Texas 4-1 and 7-3; Cleveland took a pair from Detroit, 7-2 and 9-0; Boston beat Milwaukee 6-3, then lost 7-3, and Minnesota pounded Chicago 9-1.

Royals 8, Angels 7
The powerless Angels must have been envious Sunday when Kansas City blasted five home runs, three by Tony Solaita, whose 11th-inning RBI single was the game-winner, and two from John Mayberry, major league leader with 33 homers.

A's 4-7, Rangers 1-3
"Our bullpen has kept us in the race all year," Oakland Manager Alvin Dark said following a doubleheader sweep of Texas.

Dick Bosman, with shutout relief help from Jim Todd over the final 3 and 2-3 innings, won the first game and Sonny Siebert, with relief help from Paul Lindblad, Todd and Rollie Fingers, won the second game.

Twins 9, White Sox 1
Steve Brye returned to the Minnesota lineup with a boom. Brye, making his first plate appearances in two months after being on the disabled list, pinch hit an inside-the-park home run, then in his next at bat, he slugged a conventional over-the-wall shot.

Red Sox 6-3, Brewers 3-7
George Scott slugged a three-run homer to lead Milwaukee over Boston in the first game after the Red Sox whipped the Brewers in the opener on Carlton Fisk's tie-breaking double.

Indians 7-9, Tigers 2-0
Oscar Gamble and George Hendrick were the hitting stars in Cleveland's slugfest over Detroit. Gamble cracked a triple and a homer and drove in three runs as Fritz Peterson won his eighth straight game with a six-hitter. Hendrick drove in three runs with his 21st homer and a single in the opener.

Miss Evert's victory was worth $25,000. She received another $900 as a semifinalist in the women's doubles. Not counting accessories and endorsements, she has banked a record $280,927 so far this year.

Orantes, No. 2 on the Grand Prix of Tennis championship points list, earned $25,000 for his victory, increasing his year's earnings to $131,406, while Connors' $12,000 as runnerup pushed his total earnings, including challenge matches, to $587,809.

Miss Goolagong, now a three-time runner-up at Forest Hills, earned $12,000, increasing her 1975 earnings to $109,109.

Brye's homers beat Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Brye was "anxious and excited" to get back to swinging a bat and made his return a memorable one Sunday when he hit two home runs to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 9-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Brye, who suffered a broken left wrist on July 3 when he was hit by a Nolan Ryan fast ball, made his first plate appearance in more than two months and hit a pinch, inside-the-park homer in the seventh inning.

He remained in the game and then hit his eighth homer of the year into the upper deck in left field in the eighth inning. Brye topped his performance by throwing out a runner at home in the ninth inning.

"After being out for two months, I should be strong," said Brye, whose only appearances in recent weeks were as a pinch runner. "I didn't expect to hit the daylight out of that first homer."

Brye got his chance when he batted for Lyman Bostock, who earlier injured his wrist. He hit Claude Osteen's first pitch down the right field line. Bob Coluccio came running in hard toward the line but the ball bounced in front and away from him, rolling into the right field corner as Brye circled the bases.

Brye, who said getting hit by a Nolan Ryan fast ball is like "being hit by a ray gun, you can't see it but you feel the sting," said he still had pain in the wrist three days ago but it felt better Sunday.

"No, I wasn't worried about being plate shy," said Brye. "I was just anxious and excited to get back up there. I wanted to see the ball good and take a good swing. I kept my legs and arm in shape while I was wearing a cast."

Manager Frank Quilici said he was glad to have Brye back to swing against "those left-handers. I was worried about getting stuck at two."

Lions crush Eagles 36-6 with bruising ground attack

By JIM FOX
Telegraph Sports Writer
FRANKLIN GROVE — A good close football game is an exciting event to witness. It keeps the adrenalin flowing on every play. There is nothing comparable to it. Unfortunately such a game failed to materialize, here, Saturday afternoon as the LaMoille Lions routed the Eagles of Franklin Center 36-6 in non-conference action.

Dominance was the name of the game as an impressive LaMoille team ran and ran and ran some more on an inexperienced Eagle line in accumulating 443 yards on rushing. The Lions attempted only two passes in the game, but both were complete with one good for 40 yards and a touchdown.

Overall, LaMoille amassed 492 yards to the Eagles 153. Franklin Center did not pick up a yard on passing.

LaMoille received the opening kick-off and proceeded to demonstrate what they were to do all afternoon. Consistently staying on the ground and working up the middle LaMoille gained big yardage and ate large chunks of the clock in doing so.

Senior fullback Ken Luck carried the first three plays and picked up 21 yards advancing the ball to the Lions 49-yard line. Steve Barkman shared the ball-handling chores with Luck in LaMoille's first big drive as the duo brought the ball down to the Eagles 18-yard line for a fourth down and two yards situation.

Barkman was smashed at the line of scrimmage on the fourth down play by a determined defensive line forcing LaMoille to hand the ball over to the Eagles with 7:47 remaining in the first quarter.

Franklin Center took possession for its first time and made it count. Junior quarterback Rick Baker picked up 11 yards and a first down on two keepers to the right side placing the ball on the Eagles 29.

Jeff Heckman ploughed up the field for six before Doug Hillison was stopped for no gain in the 35-yard line, forcing a third and five play.

Baker kept the ball and shot up the middle looking for the first down. He was hit hard at the line of scrimmage, but spun off and found daylight down the right sideline racing 65 yards for the score. LaMoille's Bill Stouffer, back star of the day, tried in vain to catch Baker, but fell five yards short as the speedy quarterback loped into the endzone. A conversion run failed and the Eagles led 6-0 with 5:22 left in the quarter.

But the Lions roared to life on the next series. A 30-yard kick-off return by Dave Watson brought the ball to the LaMoille 44. Barkman, quarterback Brad Geuther and Luck, between two penalties, picked up yardage placing the ball on the Eagles 47 with a third and 18.

Stouffer then let loose on his first big run of the day, as the senior half-back scampered down the left sideline. Stouffer's bid for a touchdown was foiled by Scott Murphy, who brought Stouffer down on the one-yard line. One play later Luck blasted over for the tying TD and when the conversion run failed a 6-6 contest developed.

Hillison returned the Lion's kick-off 21 yards putting the Eagles on their own 43. But then the roof caved in as a poor hand-off resulted in a costly fumble recovered by the Lions' Mike Sprung on the 40 yard line.

It took only one Lions play to take the lead to stay as Geuther hit a wide open receiver Kyle Simpson on a 40 yard pass-play for the touchdown. Luck made it across on the conversion attempt to make it 14-8. The tying and lead TD's occurred within 30 seconds of each other.

The lightning-fast scores seemed to add enthusiasm to LaMoille as its defense started to take charge. Franklin Center was not to score again in the game, and the Lions did not even let the Eagles come close to a TD. Heckman recovered a Lions fumble in the second quarter, but the Eagles were unable to move the ball and were forced to punt.

On the next series Stouffer raced for his second long run of the first half, with this one scoring six points. Led by blockers Dennis Sampo and Barkman, Stouffer easily scored from 36 yards out. A conversion pass was knocked away by Jeff Huber and the score read 20-6.

The Eagles marched 45 markers to the Lions' 35 but the clock won the race before Franklin Center had a chance to score.

The second half was all LaMoille. Luck capped a 73 yard drive with a six yard run up the middle on LaMoille's first ball possession of the third quarter. Watson swept around right end for the two point conversion pushing the Eagles farther behind 28-6.

The Lions final tally ate up almost eight minutes — the final two of the third quarter and about six minutes of the fourth period of action. Geuther plunged through from a foot out for the Lions' fifth TD of the day. Luck again scored the conversion points for a 36-6 insurmountable lead.

Statistics show the Lions' dominance in the game. Total yardage tells it all as LaMoille rolled up 492 to the Eagles 153, although one other factor that defeated Franklin Center was ball possession.

The Eagles had their hands on the ball only a little over 16 minutes in the contest. LaMoille allowed the Eagles only two minutes of ball possession in the fourth quarter (only one series); seven minutes in the whole second half.

Stouffer gained an amazing 206 yards on 17 carries while Luck picked up 126 yards on 22 carries. Barkman had 61 on 16. LaMoille averaged almost seven yards a carry.

Baker led in rushing for the Eagles with 78 yards on 11 attempts while Murphy gained 42 hard-earned yards on 11 carries. Franklin Center averaged close to four yards a carry.

In passing, Geuther completed two in as many attempts for 49 yards. Baker was 2-6 for no net yardage, unofficially.

Head Eagles coach Ken Neahr expressed disappointment in his team's performance. "We made some crucial mistakes," commented Neahr after the battle. "And LaMoille turned our mistakes into scores. They are a tough team to play catch-up ball with. "But we hit hard out there today. Murphy did a real fine job at linebacker and Heckman made some real good tackles."

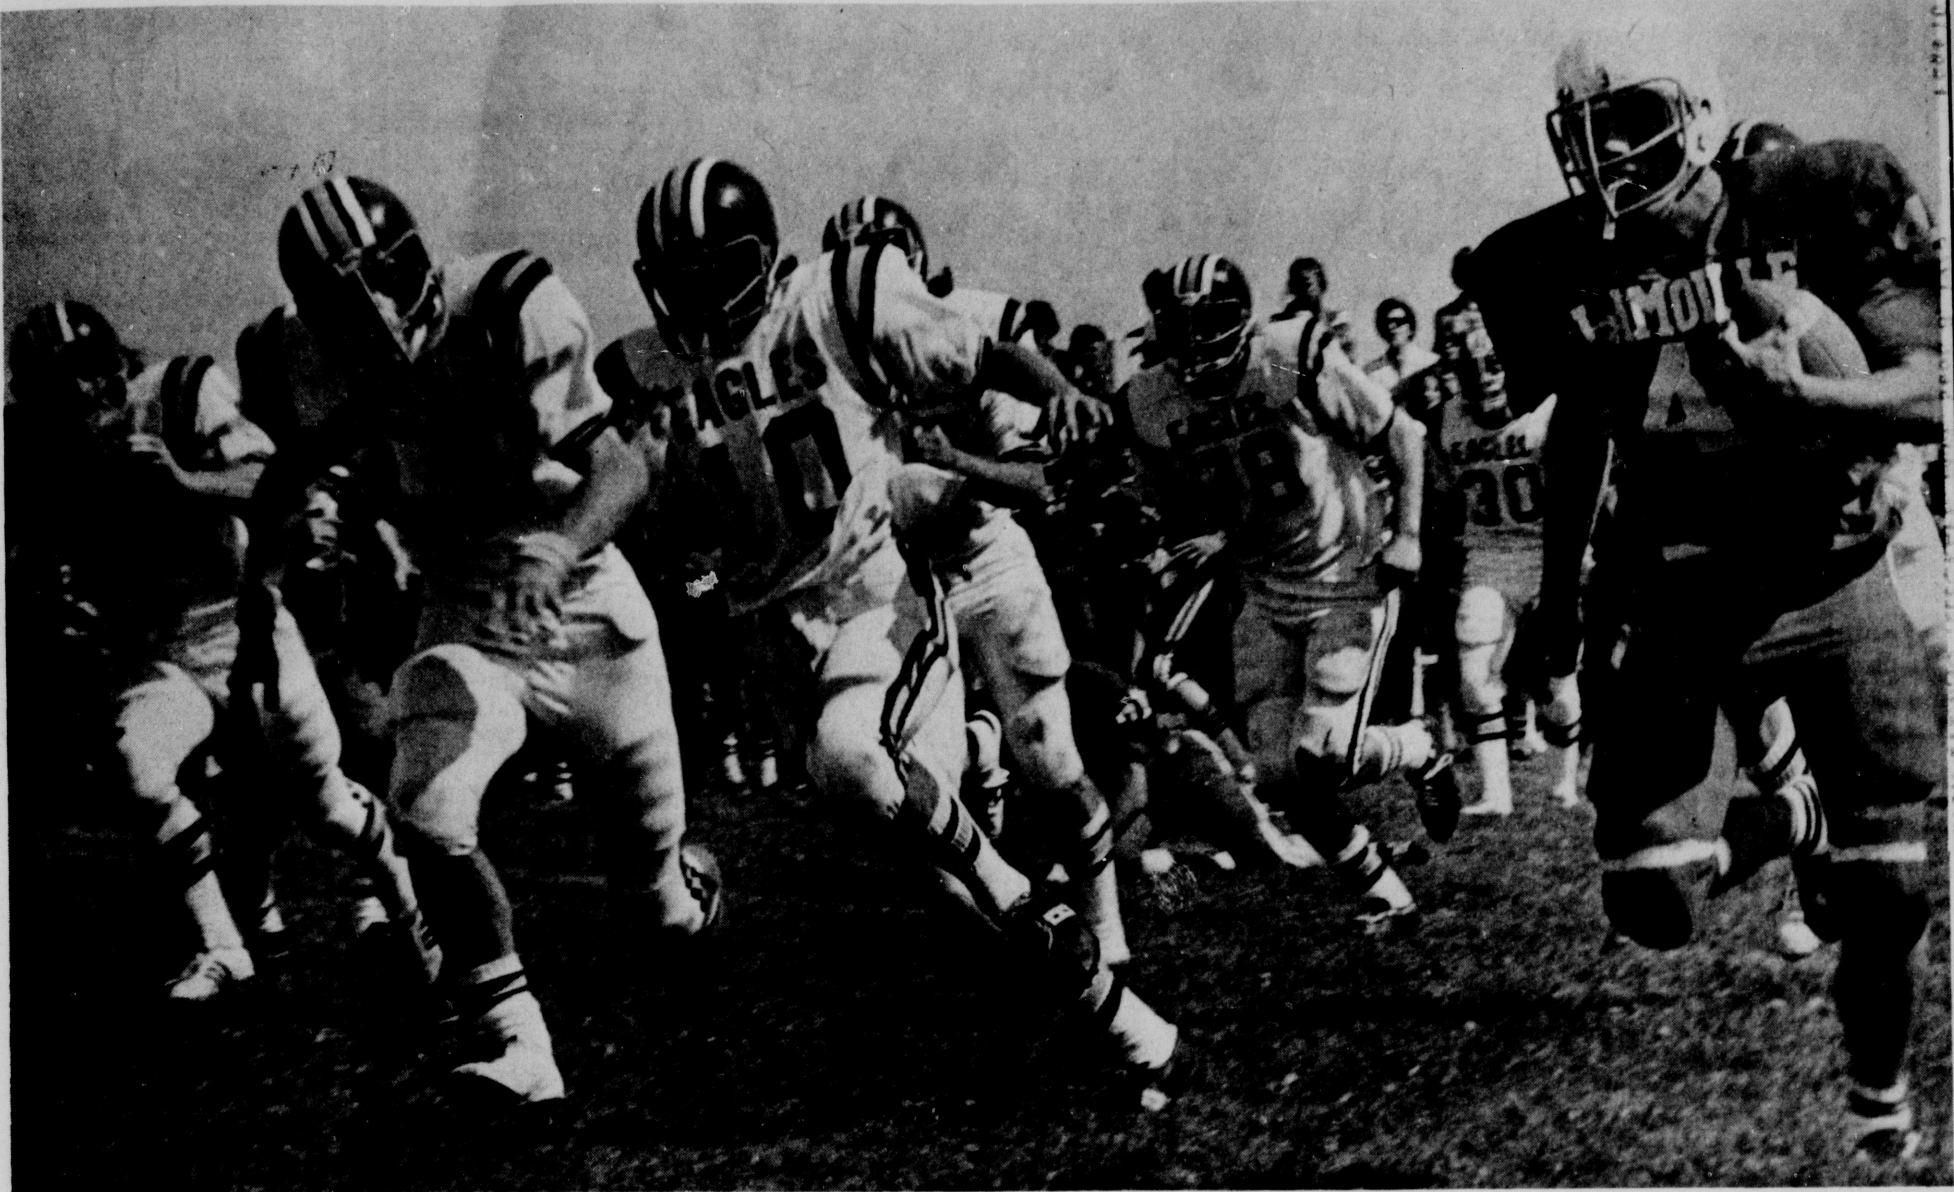

Franklin Center now opens its 1975 Upstate Illini Conference action at Mt. Carroll on Friday.

The unofficial stats for the game are as follows:

Snead and Hayes spark 49ers win

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
Norm Snead and Bob Hayes, two players who were shunted aside by other National Football League clubs, are providing new spark for the San Francisco 49ers.

Snead, 36, and Hayes, 32, connected on touchdown passes of 18 and 31 yards in the first half and the 49ers went on to whip the Denver Broncos 44-10 in NFL preseason play Sunday.

"That young fellow Snead knows what's going on out there," said Hayes jokingly.

The 49ers picked up Snead from the New York Giants midway through the 1974 season, then obtained Hayes from Dallas over the summer. Both of their old clubs felt the players were past their prime.

"In Dallas, they were saying I was finished," said Hayes. "I hope I proved to the fans here that I'm not."

In other games Sunday, Cleveland beat the New York Giants 24-20, New England defeated San Diego 31-24 and the New York Jets edged Washington 35-31.

The weekend of exhibition play opened Friday night, when Oakland stretched its record to 5-0 by beating Dallas 31-20.

On Saturday, Kansas City whipped Green Bay 31-3, Buffalo edged Atlanta 16-14, Los Angeles overpowered Philadelphia 35-0, Pittsburgh topped New Orleans 24-13, St. Louis downed Minnesota 13-6, Miami beat Chicago 21-10 and Cincinnati defeated Detroit 22-14.

The schedule concludes tonight when Baltimore plays at Houston.

"I don't think there are any more critics of my quarterback choice," said San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan, referring to his decision last week to go with Snead, who is entering his 15th pro campaign, as the 49ers' No. 1 quarterback ahead of Steve Spurrier.

Snead came through beautifully against Denver, completing 12 of 16 passes for 139 yards before leaving early in the second half. Snead took advantage of three Denver turnovers in the second quarter to roll up 23 points and break the game open.

Cleveland reserve quarterback Brian Sipe completed 15 of 18 passes for 143 yards, including a seven-yard touchdown pass to Gary Tarris in the third period that put the Browns ahead for good.

The Worry Clinic

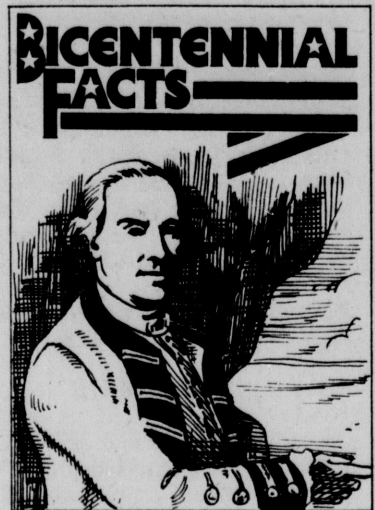

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-661: Al W., aged 38, is a radio announcer.
"Dr. Crane," he began, "I also operate a small radio station and thus do several hours of talking every day.
"But a few months ago, I grew hoarse and when my voice didn't clear up, I consulted a specialist.
"A tumor was found on one of my vocal cords and after a biopsy it was pronounced cancerous.
"So I took a series of cobalt treatments.
"But last week I again went to the throat specialist, who bluntly told me the cobalt hadn't done any good so he was setting me up for surgery in two weeks.

"He didn't explain further, so I don't know if I'll be robbed of my means of a livelihood after the operation, for if he removes my vocal cords, I'll be unable to handle my work at the radio station.
"Dr. Crane, why are doctors so blunt and lacking in empathy for their patients?
"And why don't they explain more fully what is involved and thus help cushion the shock of major surgical operations?"
M.D. Introverts
Alas, scientists who spend most of their previous education in laboratories, dealing with test tubes and microscopes, tend to be untalkative and thus poor salesmen.

They may be superb surgeons but unless they have engaged in some type of salesmanship, they usually lack the star salesman's deftness in dealing with people.
Often the straight "A" medical, dental, law or engineering school graduates are slower to succeed in private practice than are the "C" students!
For those "C" students may have had to work their way through school by selling magazines or other merchandise, or by working in restaurants or driving taxicabs. This extra-curricular time spent helping finance their education, thus forces them into trying to persuade prospects verbally, so they become much better Applied Psychologists.
In fact, many "C" graduates zoom so fast in private practice that they then hire their former "A" classmates as assistants! Since I worked for five years as a house-to-house food salesman and also as an encyclopedia salesman, plus manager for the Great Lakes States, you can realize why I explain complicated medical and psychological problems somewhat simply in this "Worry Clinic."

In fact, when I entered Medical School, after having taught psychology 10 years at Northwestern and also George Washington Universities, I was not only a decade older than the usual medical students but I was also more sales minded.
So when I interned, I often acted as a go-between, for I'd explain to patients the surgery that introverted physicians had scheduled for them.
Although these superb surgeons were experts regarding their skillful fingers, they often lacked similar deftness in use of their tongues in "selling" patients on what was to be done for them.
But we must not criticize such introverted medicals unduly, for dealing with people is similar to playing the piano, namely, both must be learned by specific attention to the rules.

A brilliant scientist may thus live in a home with a piano, yet not be able to play even a few simple chords thereon unless he has studied music.
And the same is true regarding how to get along harmoniously with patients, customers, parishioners and even school pupils!
So send for the booklet on "Vocational Guidance," with its "Introvert-Extrovert Test," and enclose a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

As a result of reports sent to London by members of his staff criticizing his "waging suicidal frontal assaults on Bunker Hill and causing senseless casualties," British General Thomas Gage, on July 15, 1775, received word from his superiors that he should not try to win another victory with such great losses, The World Almanac notes.
